NAPA COUNTY FARM BUREAU AWARDS SCHOLARSHIPS TO LOCAL STUDENTS

Napa, Calif.- The Napa County Farm Bureau's Agriculture in the Classroom program is happy to announce five outstanding winners of the 2009 Aldo Delfino Scholarship awards. These scholarships are awarded to deserving high school seniors or college students planning on further studies in agriculture or a related field, and on returning to Napa County, to work as a professional in an agriculturally-related industry.

This year's winners are Clayton Boydston, Vintage High School; Julian Rossi, Napa High School; Horacio Lopez-Segura and Laura White, St. Helena High School and Samantha Aragon, Santa Rosa JC. These students will be honored at assemblies this week at their respective high schools.

Aldo Delfino is the late the Napa County Agricultural Commissioner who valued both the opportunity to attend college as well as the opportunity to serve Napa County's community and agricultural industries. The Napa County Farm Bureau values the opportunity to serve the agricultural leaders of tomorrow by assisting them in their pursuit of a top-quality education. The Napa County Farm Bureau wishes to congratulate all of this year's Aldo Delfino Scholarship winners!
